Last evening I listened intently to the Honor Code and Standards of Conduct presentation made by the Greystone Class of 2013. The more I listened, the more I was truly impressed with not only the words that were being said, but also the depth of understanding as to their meaning as it pertains to their future ambitions. This class gets it! Without a doubt, this Greystone class is on the right track to not only live by an extremely high standard, but they are also on the right track to ensure that every member of the team lives up to their expectation of honor and conduct. Bravo Zulu 2013!

Since their arrival back on 15 August, the Greystone Class of 2013 has established a new standard for excellence. Not only is this the largest Greystone class (43 members), it is also the most ambitious and aggressive. These characteristics were made clear when 33 members chose to arrive at Greystone one week early to work diligently on their nomination packages (4), academy application packages (3) and back-up plan packages (3). Doing the math, that means the Staff was ready to review 330 packages! The intent of the

COMMANDER'S CORNER

Summer Session was to complete as much of their packages as possible so they could dedicate more of their time during the school year to their academics. Thanks to the success of this program, next year Greystone will require all students to arrive two weeks prior to "complete" all of their administrative responsibilities.

The Greystone Orientation afforded us with a terrific opportunity to meet and get to know the parents and other family members of the Class of 2013. For those who were unable to attend, the one overarching message to the parents was to communicate with the Staff whenever there are questions or concerns. We talk about the students and staff being a team – and when the parents are included in this mix, Greystone becomes a "family". For Greystone to "push" each candidate to their maximum potential on a daily basis, we must know what is happening in the candidate's head and their heart! To this end, as events occur within the family, communication will enable us all to maximize this year of opportunity. Don't hesitate to call – anytime...you know we will promise to do the same!

Labor Day weekend afforded Greystone with our first real "teambuilding" opportunity at YMCA Camp Flaming Arrow. Camped along the lower fork of the Guadalupe River, it was an incredible sight to look at the 21 tents that were our home for the weekend – considering that we started with only two tents eight years ago it was apparent that we are growing! The weekend was dedicated to activities intended to force interaction – cooking, eating, cleaning, swimming, kayaking, water-sliding, rope swinging, camp fires, hiking, volleyball and of course the traditional "cigar" event. In the end, it was clear that the Greystoners succeeded in achieving the objective – friendships were established! Friendship is the essence of teamwork – if they know and like each other they are more apt to work together toward a common goal (earning their appointments).

The next step in the process involves trust. To trust your teammate requires a significant leap of faith at times and to give the Greystoners that opportunity, we provided them with the High Ropes and Low Ropes challenge courses at Camp Flaming Arrow. If you have a moment, visit the Greystone Facebook site to see what I'm talking about – talk about a leap of faith – jumping from the top of a 25 foot pole to grab a ring suspended 10 feet in front of you is borderline insanity! Knowing that their teammates were holding on to the safety ropes and that regardless of the outcome of each challenge, they would land safely back on terra-firma made all the difference... because of trust! No injuries and plenty of smiles – challenges successfully engaged!

Academics have occupied center stage for all Greystoners since class started back on the 25th of August. Four hours of study hall, six days per week enables our Greystoners to live up to the expectation of real college-level academics. Schreiner is not an "easy" school as any of our alumni will attest; therefore, our students soon discovered that they only get out what they are willing to put into each course. The four-week exams were an eye-opener for many which caused study hall to transition from a "social" opportunity to a "work" opportunity which many had to supplement with additional study throughout the day. Thank goodness the students are realizing the value of their time-management skills to help them maximize every moment! From early morning (0530 PT) through the end of study hall (2200) – the Greystoners are busy working hard to realize their dream of attending a service academy! Change is taking place – students are rapidly evolving into scholars, athletes are turning into highly conditioned athletes with muscles they did not know they had and followers are growing into effective leaders. What our Greystoners are learning – most of which does not come from a book or a classroom – is being used as a process leading them to mature into responsible and accountable adults. This has been a very challenging half-semester thus far and I can't be more proud of this class of Greystoners!

Cheers,
CDR B

SETTING THE STANDARD

Shawn Quillen signing the Standards of Conduct

Every year, the Greystone students are asked to develop an Honor Code and Standards of Conduct document that will govern their actions in their short time at Greystone. In order to create the code and standards, the students researched each of the academies in order to learn what is expected of them as future military officers. The resulting documents were extremely well written and were presented and discussed with confidence. From this presentation, it is clear that these students are well on their way to becoming officers of great character and integrity. We look forward to continue watching them grow!

WORK HARD...PLAY HARD...

It's no secret that the Greystoners are a busy group. Between their academic responsibilities, working out, and volunteering with the Boys and Girls Club or with First Tee, there's hardly any room left for fun. Unless it's scheduled fun!

For the past few years, Virginia Spikes, one of our Board Members and close friends has been opening up her home to the Greystone students for an evening of river fun and delicious food.

Down at the river, the students had a great time kayaking, swimming, and having a gigantic mud fight. They even made a new friend with one of the neighbor's dogs. For that particular evening her name was "Bella".

Afterwards, the students were treated to a dinner that could satisfy any hunger. And we all know that if it comes out of Mrs. Spikes' kitchen, then it is going to be good!

All in all, it was a great opportunity to relax and recharge for the upcoming week. Thank you, Mrs. Spikes for a wonderful evening!

NEW ADDITIONS TO THE GREYSTONE FAMILY

Part of the appeal of Greystone is the feeling that you've joined a family. This year with 43 "kids" in the program, the staff and Board of Directors decided that adding to the daily staff was necessary in order to maintain the hands-on approach that Greystone promises.

Joining us to fulfill that promise are Lieutenant Colonel (LTC) Todd Reichert, the Director of Plans and Operations and Danielle Schaefer, the Associate Director of Administration.

LTC Reichert, a native of Arlington, Texas, graduated from Texas A&M as a member of the Class of 1989 with a Bachelors of Science degree in Psychology. While at A&M, LTC Reichert held various leadership positions within the Corps of Cadets including Corps Commander.

Completing his time at Texas A&M as a Distinguished Military Graduate, LTC Reichert was commissioned into the U.S. Army as an Infantry Officer, and later transitioned to the Military Intelligence field. LTC Reichert has served in numerous Army units including the 3rd Infantry Division

(Germany), the 82nd Airborne Division (Fort Bragg, North Carolina) and the 10th Mountain Division (Fort Drum, New York). He also served as an ROTC instructor at Texas A&M. While recently assigned to the 10th Mountain Division, LTC Reichert served two combat tours in Afghanistan in support of Operation Enduring Freedom. His last active duty assignment was as the Director of the Army ROTC program at Stephen F. Austin State University in Nacogdoches, TX. LTC Reichert retired with 22 years of active duty service prior to his arrival at Greystone.

His decorations include two Bronze Star Medals and three Meritorious Service Medals. He has also earned the Master Parachutist Badge, the Pathfinder Badge, and the Expert Infantryman Badge. LTC Reichert holds a Masters Degree in Management from Central Michigan University, and is a graduate of the Army Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, KS.

Danielle was born and raised in League City, Texas and came to Schreiner University as a freshman in August of 2007.

While at Schreiner, Danielle was actively involved on campus in groups including Delta Phi Epsilon sorority, Schreiner Residence Life, and the Schreiner Honors Program.

In her first year, Danielle got to know the Greystone program as a friend and volunteer. As a sophomore and junior, she participated in PT and in doing so, had the opportunity to lead PT as the Athletic Coordinator in her senior semester.

Danielle graduated from Schreiner in three and a half years with a Bachelors of Science degree in Biology and as a member of the Honors Program. Her work experience is varied—most of it pertaining to a biology background, but her passion for Greystone's mission made it an easy decision to accept the position.

We are very pleased to have both LTC Reichert and Miss Schaefer on board—Todd for his ROTC expertise and his Army background to balance the mostly-Navy staff, and Danielle, for her knowledge of the inner workings of Schreiner University. To both Todd and Danielle, welcome to the Greystone family!

GREYSTONE ON CAMPUS

Over the SU Family Weekend, there were many events on campus for the whole family to enjoy. One of those events was Alpha Sigma Alpha's Dancing with the ASA Stars. Three of the Greystone students volunteered as dancing partners in order to raise money for the Special Olympics. Each student prepared for weeks getting their moves just right for this charity event. First on the stage was Shawn Quillen and his partner Jocelynn Machis dancing to Beyonce's "Single Ladies". Following shortly after was Jeffery Walton and his ASA counterpart Brooke Bailey. The pair danced to a swing number complete with lifts and fast footwork. The last Greystoner to compete was Nathanael McGlothlin and his partner Shelby Smith. The two danced their way to the winner's circle with a high flying two-step that proved you don't have to keep your feet on the ground to be considered a great dancer. There to support them were fellow Greystoners as well as two new members of the Friends of Greystone (aka FoG), Stacy Garcia and Derrad Fawcett.

The second event in Family Weekend was Delta Phi Epsilon's Cinderfella. Cinderfella is an annual male beauty pageant that benefits the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. This year, one of our Greystone students was signed up and ready to perform when he found out at the last minute that he couldn't participate that evening. Luckily, his teammate, Tyler Sharpless stepped up to the plate to fill the roll as Sasha, "the Siberian Barbie". With only 3 hours to prepare, Sasha was able to learn her routines and put on an exceptional performance. She won over the entire crowd with an icy gaze that could only be mastered after surviving the harsh Siberian winters. And although she didn't officially win the crown, Sasha was without a doubt, the most memorable contestant and a winner in her own right.

TEAMWORK, LEADERSHIP, AND FUN!

Josh Calderon and the Leap of Faith

On Saturday, September 22nd the Greystone students were given the opportunity to show just what they're made of. They participated in both a high ropes course and a low ropes course that put their leadership, determination, and teamwork to the test. The fantastic staff at YMCA Camp Flaming Arrow in Hunt, TX challenged the students to push themselves in order to complete each obstacle, some of which were 40 feet in the air!

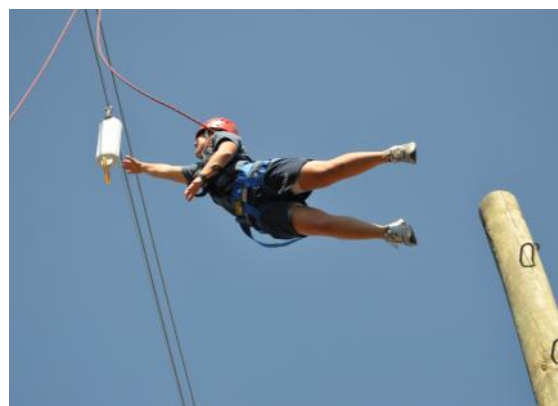

In the high ropes course, the students learned the value of encouraging their teammates and attempting tasks that they didn't believe they were capable of. And in the low ropes, they found out just how important good communication is when it comes to working as a team.

Then at the end of the day, after hours of working hard and playing hard, the Greystone students took a pledge to each other. Through this pledge, each student committed themselves to the betterment of the team. Together, they will be able to achieve more than they ever could on their own. And together, they will strive for the ultimate goal: 43 for 43!

AN ALUMNI PERSPECTIVE—ENS CODY HICKS, USN

I arrived at Greystone with a feeling of disappointment and frustration still lingering from the rejection letter I had received a few months earlier from the Naval Academy; after reading those first few words of “Thank you for your interest in and application for admission to the U.S. Naval Academy but we regret to inform you...” I did not have to read any further. The Academy was the only institution I ever wanted to attend and after years of working toward that goal I felt like the institution had told me I was not good enough—I had not been competitive enough—to gain admission. I knew I had two choices: give up or try again. I was determined to try again but I knew I would need more help along the way. I found that and much more in Greystone.

A typical course load of a first year cadet/midshipman at a service academy includes approximately 18 credit hours with courses in chemistry, calculus, English composition, economics, history, and more; my Greystone schedule mirrored this very closely. The structured, mandatory study hall throughout the week enabled me to focus on my academics and empowered me to refine the study skills necessary to make the grades I knew I would need in reapplying to the Academy. Additionally, time management skills are an absolute necessity in both the Academy and overall military environment. Each student would have weekly meetings with Commander (CDR) Bailey in which we demonstrated our efforts to effectively manage our time. In these face-to-face meetings, I learned to organize and complete tasks in 5, 10, and 15-minute periods of time that I had not previously known were possible; prioritization was key.

The physical training program at Greystone greatly benefitted me during my time there as well. CDR Bailey’s early morning Physical Training (PT) sessions employed a variety of training and exercises including cardio and strength workouts as well as swimming instruction to help those of us CDR Bailey affectionately referred to as “aqua rocks”. Once I reported to the Academy and began Plebe Summer my stress related to the physical demands of Academy life was significantly decreased.

The benefits of having attended Greystone are innumerable; I will never be able to fully express all that I gained from the many Saturday character/leadership classes, Wednesday trips to Big Brothers Big Sisters, Friday tutoring at the local elementary school, etc. Perhaps most important to me are the relationships that were built throughout my year at Greystone, which continue in the same great fashion today; my Greystone classmates are still the best friends for whom I could ask. We began together at Greystone, reported to I-Day together, finished Plebe Summer together, and tossed our covers in the air as we were graduated and commissioned together.

I graduated from the United States Naval Academy with the great Class of 2012 along with eight of my Greystone classmates. Following graduation I remained at Annapolis until I-Day to help CDR Bailey, who swore me in as a midshipman, administer the Oath of Office to the incoming midshipmen of the Greystone Class of 2012; we had come full circle. Presently, I am a Student Naval Aviator stationed in Pensacola, FL and, like most aviators, loving life and looking forward to being a career naval aviator.

LADIES AUXILIARY

The Greystone Ladies Auxiliary is a brand new group formed this year by Dee Elliott. They have been a great help already in this semester serving food at orientation, bringing in baked goods, and acting as sponsor families to the students. Every couple of weeks some of the ladies open up their homes to host a few students for an evening, giving them the chance to relax and unwind off campus.

We are so grateful for their help and are very excited to see what they come up with in the next few months.

Thank you, ladies, for all you do!

IN MEMORY OF COMMANDER JERRY BUCK

In early 1999, I ran into a friend of mine from my previous command – Seventh Fleet Staff. After exchanging pleasantries, he asked what I was doing and I explained that I was teaching the “Weapons” course at the Academy. He informed me that he was working in the Navy Tomahawk Shop and that we should allow him and his office buddy to give a classified presentation on the Tomahawk weapon system. After jumping through several security hoops, my students (all 400 of them) were allowed to experience a brief one on one of the newest weapons systems at the time – and that’s when I first met Jerry Buck.

Jerry had recently retired from the Navy and was working as a civilian – doing many of the same things he did as a “ship driver” in the Navy. His specialty was in weapons systems and in particular, cruise missiles. Jerry showed up to help provide the brief to my Midshipmen which began our rather interesting relationship. For four years, Jerry provided the Tomahawk cruise missile brief to the Academy Midshipmen and during that time, I got to know about his incredible career, the influential military people he worked with and the places his career took him. His greatest source of pride was his daughter, Cori, who aspired to someday follow in her father’s footsteps through the Naval Academy. As time progressed, I continued to work on my dream of starting an academy prep school with some occasional input from Jerry.

After I retired and left the Academy, I did not hear from Jerry for a few years. I moved to Texas and started Greystone and much to my surprise, at the end of our second year, I received a call from Jerry – Cori applied to the Naval Academy and re-

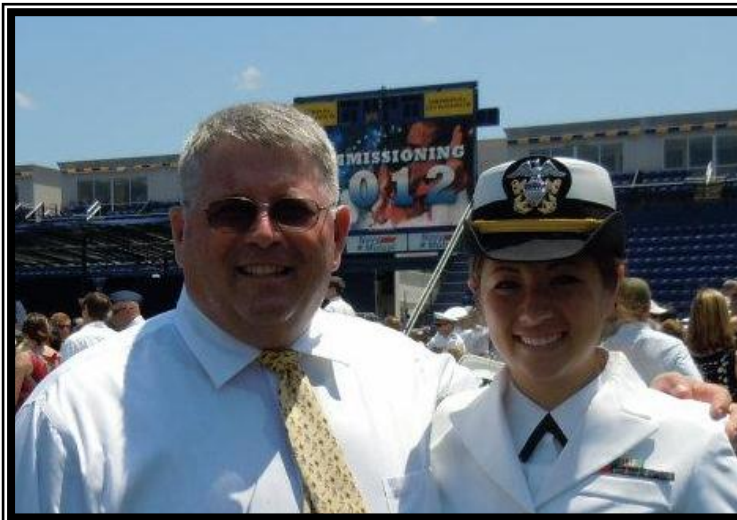

Under his leadership, Greystone transitioned from a back alley-mom-and-pop operation to a “Main Street” program. He spearheaded the creation of the new Greystone website, directed the development of the new Greystone information packages and orchestrated the new Greystone DVD. His efforts were largely responsible for the new Greystone image that more accurately reflected the many successes achieved from our students. Thanks to Jerry, Greystone grew from 25 students in 2011-12 to 43 students in 2012-13! He was a true visionary and a man who was willing to go above and beyond – not for himself, but for all of the kids he worked so very hard to serve.

In early September, Jerry passed away and as a tribute to him, Greystone is establishing a Scholarship in his name. All funds provided to the Commander Jerry Buck Memorial Scholarship will go directly to an aspiring Naval Academy candidate interested in attending Greystone. The intent of this scholarship is to honor a man who gave so much of himself to others who want nothing more than to serve our country as academy trained and educated leaders. With his passing, there can be no better tribute than this living memorial.

ceived sponsorship from the Foundation to attend one of their approved prep schools – and Greystone was on their list! From that point on, Jerry was part of the Greystone program. First, Jerry participated as an involved parent, and then after Cori earned her Naval Academy appointment, Jerry offered to join the Greystone Board of Directors where he served as the Chairman of the Marketing, Advertising and Public Relations Committee.

THANK YOU, FRIENDS

MEET THE FLEET

In this past year Greystone has received two generous donations that turned our small caravan of Greystone vehicles into the Greystone Fleet. The first addition, affectionately known as the “Bones-Mobile”, is a Toyota Land Cruiser that’s perfect for running errands around town. The Bones-Mobile is named after a dear friend of Greystone, Bronson Evans (AKA “Bones”) who passed away in the Spring season. His wife Karen, who donated the vehicle told us that this SUV was his favorite toy, making this a very special gift for us.

The second addition to the fleet (or armada, if you’d like) is a 14-foot trailer that completely overshadows the original trailer now known as “Baby”. This new trailer, due to its massive size, has been dubbed “Gigantor”. Gigantor is a double-axle trailer with power brakes and enough space to fit camping supplies for everyone—even the tents donated by the Moore family. Funds for Gigantor were donated by our Board Members and friends, Phil and Nancy Dickinson.

With these new additions, that brings our vehicle count up to seven—two 15-passenger vans (The Love Shack and the Beast), one SUV (The Bones-Mobile), two trailers (Gigantor and Baby), and two kayaks (yet to be named). Now that Commander Bailey is in charge of his own fleet, we might even change his rank to Admiral! And for that, we can extend a thank you to both Karen Evans, and the Dickinsons. Their donations have already been an incredible help as we experience the growth of Greystone to 43 students. To Karen, Phil, and Nancy, thank you!

CAMPING TENTS

An important aspect of the Greystone program is challenging the students to go outside of their comfort zone. One way we do that is by getting them outdoors for our annual Labor Day Camping Trip. With 43 students, tent space was at a premium, but thanks to Dave and Angie Moore, parents of a Grey-stone graduate, we now have room for everyone and then some. Thanks to the Moores, Greystone is now the proud owner of ten five-man tents and various assorted camping supplies! One could say that we had the best looking campsite around.

Thank you Dave and Angie!

Any financial help in deferring these costs is greatly appreciated.

Greystone Preparatory School at Schreiner University uniquely offers Federal Service Academy candidates a one-year program with emphasis on academics, athletics and leadership through its affiliation with Schreiner University. Schreiner courses are fully accredited and taught by experienced professors with their doctorate degrees. All academic courses are in sync with first-year academy courses, providing Greystone students with a significant advantage over their academy classmates because they are more prepared for the true rigors they will encounter at the academies – academics, athletics and leadership challenges. In addition to university-level academics, Greystone supplements its program with a demanding athletic and physical conditioning program, as well as significant character development and leadership training throughout the entire year of study. Students who graduate from Greystone are better prepared for the scholastic, physical and leadership challenges that await them and therefore are more apt to maximize their four-year academy opportunity leading them to graduation and their commissions.
